

#POSITIVE DISCRIMINATION

A portrait that I made for Elon

When the Germans invade the Netherlands in 1940, the government flees to London. In 1944 the ministers decide that Dutch Jews will be treated in the same way as non-Jewish Dutchmen. So: no discrimination. After the war, the Jews who had survived the camps returned the Netherlands but generally the reception was inhospitable, both by part of the population and by the authorities. At that time many people felt everyone had suffered in the war Why should the Jews receive more attention than others? No exceptions for them.

HOW DO YOU FEEL: CAN YOU IMAGINE SITUATIONS IN WHICH SOME PEOPLE SHOULD HAVE MORE RIGHTS THAN OTHERS?

*The train station
has been destroyed,
what a shame!*

Leo and I demonstrated the Lambeth Walk in Vught